speedy and economical contact.' Let the Patrons of Husbandry abide by all the great principles it ununicated at St. Louis, and it will continue to grow until it spreads over the whole country and takes in every farmer. But let it once go into politics as an organization, and it will die like a tree poisoned at its roots. No secret association can control the political desti-nies of the Republic. The attempt to do it will shipwreck any secret order. Reconizing this great truth, the St. Louis Platform says: "We emphatically and sincerely assert the oft repeated truth taught in our organic law, that the Grange, National, State or Subordinate, is not a political or party organization;" further, it declares that "no Grange, if true to its obligation, can discuss paitical quesnor nominate candidates, nor even discuss their merits in its meetings."
